

Equipment and Modification Services - changes and new funding

March 2010

The value of applications received for equipment and housing modifications for disabled people of all ages increased by nearly 25% last year. Because of this rise in costs and the level of funding available, many more people have to wait to get the services they need. To try and reduce the length of time that people have to wait for their equipment and/or modifications the government will inject an extra $7 million immediately and another $20 million over the next two years.

However, even with this additional funding, the rising costs of equipment and modification services are not sustainable, so we need to look at how we can manage demand within the money that is available.

To do this, the Ministry has made some changes to the eligibility criteria for some services and has introduced changes to funding limits. It also plans to extend its competitive processes for buying disability equipment, including hearing aids, which will help bring overall costs down.

Why have the costs for equipment and modifications risen so much?

There are a number of reasons for this increase:

- more people are staying in their own home rather than moving into different types of residential care
- new and more expensive technology with advanced features are now available such as power wheelchairs with seats that can go up/down, electric ceiling hoists and hearing aids
- the costs associated with building and construction have increased significantly.

What are the changes?

We have raised the threshold for funding low cost equipment from $37.00 (inc. GST) to $50.00 (inc. GST).

Housing access modifications to allow people to get in/out of their home, including moving between floors, will not be funded in excess of $15,000 (inc. GST). Note, this does not impact on applications for other types of housing modifications such as level access showers.

We are introducing fairer, simpler eligibility criteria for the funding of hearing aids.

We will also be looking to extend our competitive tendering processes, over and above what occurs now.

When will changes come into effect?

The changes to funding levels for hearing aids will take immediate effect from Wednesday 3 March 2010. This means that the new eligibility criteria will apply to all applications received on or after Wednesday 3 March 2010, for:

- either fully funded hearing aids (wholesale cost) or the hearing aids subsidy
- low cost equipment items
- access modifications to homes.
